

Video Conferencing for Orthopaedic Consults

Two options are available at present. Both are available on PC and Macs and are free.

Skype

Zoom

You should download one of these onto your computer prior to the consultation to make it flow smoothly.

Skype

Send an email with your name and Skype handle. At the appointment time, you will receive a phone call first to confirm you are ready, and then the video call through Skype.

Zoom

Ensure we have your email address prior to the consult. At the appointment time, you will receive a phone call first to confirm you are ready, then an email with a link that simply needs to be clicked to join the meeting.

There are many steps at which we might encounter technical glitches, but so far the video consultations are working reasonably smoothly. Don't be too concerned if you haven't tried this before - it is not too difficult, but help from a family member or friend can be valuable. If it is all new to you, we recommend making a test call with a friend prior to your consult.
